About the artist

Tiny art painter / silversmith / poet

Anna Åström (Sweden 1972).

Exposing art since 1986 (Spain, Sweden and Italy). Living and working in Spain since 1993.

Painting watercolour miniatures loyal to the traditional technique with the paper as the only white and the water as the only light – all with brush.

”There are two things in life that, since always, give me a very special energy – zest for life – those are Nature and Create”.

Everything starts with a dream…

From my childhood I especially remember the hill with birch climbing the mountain behind the house, the lake where we swam in the summer night and the creek with the black well that never froze in wintertime. I remember the orphan lambs that we had to bottle-feed in spring and the yellow fields of dandelion… Memories that I keep and care as small images.

I also used to spend a lot of hours drawing, painting, cutting, pasting, fantasizing…

Creating…

When I was 14 years old, I got the opportunity to present my paintings for the first time, acrylics on canvas – pretty big back then – and after that followed studies, several exhibitions and collaborations.

The small details make life big.

Since always I pay special attention to the small details; a smile, a word, a breeze, an image, a tone, a light, a shadow…

All big parts from small.

Now, since many years, I’m living and working in Spain. I have a workshop for handmade jewelry and, shaded by old oak trees, I try to see and save those details – small images that inspire me and that always have something to do with the nature that gives me balance and harmony.”
